

The ISSC received the following information on July 16, 2021

Washington State is in the process of conducting a recall of oyster shellstock harvested from the Samish Bay growing area in Skagit County, WA. All oyster shellstock harvested from 6/29/2021 to today is being recalled due to 4 single source Vibrio parahaemolyticus illnesses occurring from the harvest date 6/29/2021. Washington State also has a number of lab confirmed multisource and lab pending illnesses implicating Samish Bay.

Washington State is working to gather quantities of product affected and disposition of that product from harvesters in the area. Washington State is unsure of the other states impacted at this time. Washington State does know oysters were exported to Cambodia, China and the Philippines during this period.

Washington State is waiting for distribution details.

Should the ISSC receive additional information, you will be notified.
